

Review of Natural Products

© 2010 Wolters Kluwer Health, Inc.

Editors: Ara DerMarderosian, PhD,
John A. Beutler, PhD

ISBN: 1574391003

Subjects: Complementary & Alternative Medicine

Overview:

As natural products continue to rise in popularity, there is an increased need for unbiased, accurate, scientifically based information on these products. The Review of Natural Products, already well established and highly regarded as a publication to meet this need, has been revised significantly to prove even more useful to health care professionals. Clinical information has been added and highlighted in all of the monographs so users can find critical information quickly.

The editors, contributing editors, and advisory panel have extensive experience in the field of natural product pharmacy and medicine. The Review of Natural Products includes more than 300 monographs and is updated monthly. Each monograph features scientific names, common names, botan or source, history, chemistry, uses and pharmacology, dosing, pregnancy/lactation, interactions, adverse reactions, toxicology, and references. A "Clinical Overview" box at the beginning of each monograph summarizes the use, dosing, contraindication, pregnancy/lactation, interaction, adverse reaction, and toxicology information.

This title updates monthly.

RATINGS & REVIEWS

The American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy
for inclusion in college
pharmacy libraries